F.D. Hurls Lie, Denies U. S. in War Alliance

By ARTHUR HACHTEN

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Angered by the injection of what he termed party politics into American foreign policy, President Roosevelt today restated that policy to his press conference.

The President permitted newspaper men to quote him directly as follows:

"No. 1—We are against any entangling alliances, obviously.

"No. 2—We are in favor of the maintenance of world trade for everybody—all nations—including ourselves.

"No. 3—We are in complete sympathy with any and every effort made to reduce or limit armaments.

"No. 4—As a nation—as American people—we are sympathetic with the peaceful maintenance of political, economic and social independence of all nations in the world."

President Roosevelt branded as "a deliberate lie" the reports that he had told members of the Senate military affairs committee that "America's frontier lay on the Rhine."

SCORES "AGITATORS"

He declared that this nation's foreign policy should not be involved in party politics—that the 1940 political campaign should not enter into the question of national defense in 1939.

The President described unnamed senators, representatives and newspaper owners as "agitators" who are spreading "sheer bunk." He said they are appealing to the prejudices and fears of the public in a most unAmerican way, and he noted that they are receiving the acclaim of those governments which do not wish the independence of all nations.

Mr. Roosevelt said this nation's foreign policy had been thoroughly covered in his message to Congress, and that nothing new had been injected into it.

CALLS SECRECY "BUNK"

Charges of secrecy levelled against his conduct of foreign affairs were branded as "100 per cent bunk" by the President.

The President said he had told members of both the Senate military affairs committee and the House subcommittee on military appropriations certain things of a confidential nature, but asked the press conference whether any person believed such matters should be made public.

The President pointed out that information from our intelligence services could not be proved before a court, possibly, yet from all possible checks appeared reasonably

Only the fact that she is petite saved Mrs. Julia E. Coleman of Orchard street, Belmont, from serious injury, even death, today when an avalanche of snow from the roof of a building on State street landed on top of her automobile as she was parking it.

The steel roof of the machine was knocked in with such force it sprung the two front doors.

"If Mrs. Coleman had been about two inches taller, sitting up, the snow would have crushed in the top of her head," police said.

As it was, Mrs. Coleman escaped with a shaking up and a severe shock.

'STAY HOME' PLAN BACKED BY POLL

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

Special to Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—The American Congress is unanimously on the side of peace, on the vital issues of public policy involving peace or war.

With hardly a dissenting voice, the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives, regardless of party or politics, are against any acts of aggression on the part of the United States, are opposed to any entangling alliances, and favor the re-arming of the nation for defense only.

These strong expressions make up the unmistakable opinion of the Congress, as revealed in the first of the replies which began pouring in today in response to the questionnaire prepared by William Randolph Hearst, and submitted to Congress through the medium of his newspapers.

The questionnaire aroused the deepest interest at the Capitol as it was spread before every one of the national legislators.

It was discussed informally among members of the House, and by late afternoon virtually every one had read it.

HELPS PUBLIC OPINION

It was generally felt, and a number of representatives made the comment, that Mr. Hearst had done a very constructive thing, and that the revelation of the state of mind of Congress, in the matter of the acute state of American foreign relations, would be very helpful to public opinion at this time.

Speaker Bankhead read Mr. Hearst's questionnaire at his desk in his private office, during a lull in the proceedings of the House. He does not often consent to comment upon matters which might perhaps involve questions of legislative policy, but his interest was unmistakable.

Mr. Bankhead said:

"I feel that the American people are passionately devoted to peace, and that they earnestly desire to live in peace with all other nations, but I also think that in view of world conditions it is the part of wisdom for the United States to prepare itself adequately for national defense, but not for aggression."

Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, Democratic member of the foreign relations committee, said:

"Of course I do not want any war. Personally I feel it is necessary for the United States to arm, not for aggression but for defense and peace. I do not think the United States should become involved in any war unless our vital interests are attacked."

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, and member of the Senate judiciary committee, said:

"The supreme duty of the United States is so to manage its

Fear 8 Firemen Dead in Ruins In Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 3 (AP)—The pilght of eight firemen buried for hours in the fire-scarred ruins of a five-story office building was described by rescuers as "hopeless" when the structure's two remaining walls fell inward today.

"We've just about given up hope of getting any of them out alive," declared District Fire Chief Frank M. Savage.

The men were fighting the blaze from the third floor when the roof collapsed and carried them into the basement.

A ninth fireman was rescued an hour after the collapse, critically injured. Two others were treated for minor injuries.

Two hundred public works department employes were put to work with picks and shovels as the city mobilized all its resources in a desperate attempt to reach the trapped men.

Families of the victims huddled in a fire station near the scene, many of the women weeping and hysterical.

The structure where the fire occurred, known as the Collins block, is located near the heart of the business section.

Twins Arrive 10 Miles Apart

KANE, Pa., Feb. 3 (AP)—Twin sisters were born today in communities 10 miles apart and in different counties.

One twin arrived while the mother, Mrs. John Clopp, was at her home in Wilcox, Elk County, and the other six and a half hours later after Mrs. Clopp had been brought to a hospital here in McKean county.

Both babies and the mother were reported "in good condition."

Seaman Drowned, 8 Saved at Orleans

ORLEANS, Feb. 3—Hurled into a raging surf by the upset of a lifeboat, Baxter Bailey, 28, Newfoundland fisherman, drowned today while eight companions were saved, after the motor vessel Lutzen piled ashore on Nauset Beach.

Bailey's body, clad in heavy oilskins, was found a short time later, face down in the sand not far from his wrecked ship.

Within a short time coast guardsmen who rescued the eight men from the Lutzen received reports of another vessel in trouble in Buzzard's Bay, where the steamer Nantucket heard steamer blasts indicating distress.

Rescued from the Lutzen were: Captain R. J. Randell, 34, of St. John's, N. F.; Newton Halsyard, 33; C. R. Moore, 30; James Gibbons, 28; Arthur Amanson, 30; Frederick Candow, 31, all of St. John's; Joseph Carew, 29, of Cape Croyle, and Clayton Pelley, 33, Port Union, N. F.

STRIKES BAR

In the pitch blackness of night and fog the 135-foot ship struck a bar 150 yards from shore at midnight.

Bailey tried to get help by reaching shore with a frail surf boat. A few yards from the stricken vessel Bailey's boat was swept over.

The Lutzen's mate, Newton Halsyard, 33, of St. John's, had accompanied the youth and managed to save himself by grasping a rope dangling from the motor ship.

Coast guards on shore and members of the Lutzen crew heard Bailey's cries over the roar of the

DEB FETE SET FOR EMILY

Boston's younger social set was all athrill today over a party scheduled to be held two weeks from tonight at the home of Governor and Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, with charming and popular Emily Saltonstall, the governor's debutante daughter, present.

The governor explained today that just a "few friends" would be guests and that the affair would not be Miss Saltonstall's formal debut.

Meantime, plans for the formal "coming out" party apparently remained indefinite.

An accomplished musician, Miss Saltonstall is a member of the Junior League Glee Club and the Vincent Club.

The gay social round has never greatly appealed to her, but she has been active in social service work done by the Junior League and other similarly exclusive groups.

She is fond of sports, is an expert horsewoman and an enthusiastic tennis player.

1ST BONITA KISS 'SILLY BUT NICE'

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3 (AP)—Bonita Granville reacted thusly today to her first screen kiss:

"It's kind of silly, but nice, don't you think?"

Bonita celebrated her 16th birthday and the start of her new picture ("Nancy Drew, Trouble Shooter") letting Frankie Thomas, who is 17, kiss her.

As an afterthought, Bonita remarked:

"I wouldn't want to be known as sweet 16 and never been kissed."

Thebaud Raked By Storm at Sea

SHELBURNE, N. S., Feb. 3 (INS)—Leaking badly through gaps ripped in her deck planking by a heavy northeaster off the Nova Scotia coast, the famed Gloucester fishing schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud finally made port today.

Fishermen aboard reported a succession of heavy seas had raked the trim craft from stem to stern.

Benny Goodman's Hot Horn Seized by Law

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 3 (INS)—The last thin note shrilled into the rafters of the Stanley Theater, the jitterbugs stopped rolling in the aisles—and then a constable took Benny Goodman's still-smoking clarinet right out of his hands and slapped a $200 bond on it.

It was Mr. Goodman's introduction to what goes on when one picks a non-union truck man to move theatrical baggage.

Goodman picked Joseph Copeland without investigating his labor status. Came a union boss and told Goodman there would be no show unless a union trucker was hired, so Goodman switched to a union trucker.

Copeland got a writ of attachment.

Benny without his hot horn was just a pleasant young fellow who looked like a law student. The constable could have attached the trucks with less inconvenience to the band.

However, the horn didn't stay lost long. Stage hands, members of the teamsters' union and theater employes chipped in the $200, and Benny soon had his frenzied reed again.

SHARES DAD'S MILLIONS

Budapest Bomb Injures Many

BUDAPEST, Feb. 3 (AP)—A bomb explosion in the heart of Pest, commercial section of Budapest, today injured many persons and damaged the Dohany street synagogue, largest Jewish place of worship in the city.

Dr. Littlefield Killing May Be Probed Again

AUGUSTA, Me., Feb. 3—As former Attorney General Clyde R. Chapman today claimed startling evidence which would "rip the lid off" the Dr. James E. Littlefield murder at South Paris, Me., the Legislature was expected to report out of committee a bill calling for thorough investigation of the nationally famous case.

The bill was introduced yesterday by Senator Ralph Morse of Belfast and, in accordance with usual procedure, was tabled. Senator Earl P. Osgood of South Paris said today that he would move for immediate action.

"I want this matter brought into the open to have it settled once and for all," he said.

An open hearing with charges that Francis M. Carroll, former Oxford County deputy sheriff, was "railroaded" to state prison where both he and Paul Dwyer—sweetheart of Carroll's 19-year-old daughter, Barbara—are serving life terms, was expected to provide the most exciting sessions in legislative history.

In Augusta today for a conference, Attorney Chapman said:

"Carroll and Dwyer can not both be guilty of the double murder of Dr. and Mrs. Littlefield. One of them is completely innocent, and I have new evidence which will astound and shock

How Clark Wooed Carole

How did Clark Gable propose to Carole Lombard? . . . What romantic words did he whisper to her on what kind of a magic night? . . .
Did he just blurt it out, rough and honest, like one of his film heroes? . . .
Now that they are to be married March 1, Hollywood wonders. In the meantime, here is more of the inside story of the romance.

CAROLE LOMBARD CLARK GABLE
While Working on Set—Before Love Came

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3—There is hardly enough money in the whole of Hollywood to pay "the cast" of Barbara Stanwyck's fence-painting party . . .

Now almost everyone believes, indubitably that Hollywood is the Glamour Capital of the World, and the capitals are used advisedly.

Columnists write about the Trocadero, the Brown Derby, La Conga, the Cocoanut Grove, and now, Earl Carroll's Casino. Readers get the impression that every night there's a sun-spot opening at Graumann's, that Hollywood's gay, mad children dash from night-club to night-club, from gambling house to gambling house.

Tootsie Twinkles shed her Dead End Rags at the studio, and can't get home quick enough for a perfumed bath and to don her ermines for a night out with Robert Bezinkus, Hollywood's last gift to the sighing females of the nation. And Bezinkus may have long hair—he's in a costume-piece at the moment, playing Bunker Hill monument—

TOBIN DELAYS O. K. ON DOGS

Urged by a delegation of Hyde Park residents, Mayor Tobin today agreed to withhold approval of the proposed Readville dog track until Hyde Park clergy meet him and voice their opposition.

The delegation which obtained the promise was headed by City Councilor Clement A. Norton. It included Atty. Benjamin L. Schwab, Joseph Dean and Mrs. Roger Walcott, the latter a resident of Milton, just over the line from Readville.

Schwab said he and the others had been asked to represent the Hyde Park clergy, who were meeting in the Congregational Church, with Rev. George Owen, pastor, presiding.

Councilor Norton quoted Bishop William Lawrence of the Episcopal Church, who lives not far from the proposed track, as being in opposition.

"Ninety-eight per cent of the residents of Ward 18 are against this track," he said. "Dog racing doesn't even give patrons a good gamble.

"Even Al Capone threw dog tracks out of Chicago, and the Chamber of Commerce threw them out of Springfield."

Other members of the delegation expressed fear that money which ought to go to merchants and professional men would be lost betting, that children would be endangered by traffic, and parking would become a nuisance.

A petition signed by 2000 opponents of the track was given the mayor.

LIST 'WORKER' HEADS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (INS)—The Daily Worker, Communist party organ served with a court order requiring it to punish the names of its officers as required by state law or suspend publication, began printing this information in today's issue. William E. Browder, a brother of Earl Browder, general secretary of the party, was listed as president.

WILLIAM ANDREWS
Still Missing

Wage Law Head Hears From Son

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, the wage-hour administrator, whose 18-year-old son has been missing from the University of Pennsylvania since Monday, said today, "I expect him to be back in school when the next semester begins."

The son, William, left Wharton School at the university after examinations. Friends said he intended to visit friends at Albany, N. Y.

Andrews said a friend of the family received a postcard from the youth yesterday, mailed at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

"There's no reason why he can't get from Philadelphia to Albany and back by himself," the father added. "He's been to Europe and back by himself."

Earlier in the week, Andrews had said he had been in touch with the boy himself.

Angry Vets Attack Belgian Premier

BRUSSELS, Feb. 3 (INS)—Premier Paul Spaak was waylaid and beaten today by a crowd of Belgian war veterans and nationalist youth protesting against the exoneration of Professor Martens who was condemned as a traitor after the World War.

The premier, who is also foreign minister, was only slightly hurt. Immediately after police rescued him from his assailants, he received a delegation of the war veterans at his home.

Terrorist Bombings Rock London

LONDON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Bomb explosions in two subway stations in the center of London today signalled the renewal of a series of anti-English outrages attributed by Scotland Yard to Irish Republican agitators.

The blasts occurred almost simultaneously about 6 a. m. in the Leicester square and Tottenham Court road subway stations, about a quarter of a mile apart. Apparently the bombs were timed to go off before the rush hour began.

Squads of Scotland Yard detectives and police hastily blocked the entrances, turning away thousands of puzzled office workers. London's complex transportation system was thrown into a snarl.

A ticket collector at the Tottenham station was seriously injured. Five persons were hurt at Leicester square.

Dynamite had been placed in the luggage room. Windows were broken and water from burst pipes flooded the station.

The explosion at Leicester Square, London's "Times Square," also occurred in the luggage room.

For three weeks police of England, Scotland and Wales have had a 24-hour guard on railroads, airports, electric and gas systems and other vital centers following the original outbreak of explosions.

Today's violence followed appearances in London and Manchester police courts yesterday of 19 men and two women on charges of conspiracy. Cars filled with police preceded and followed the "Black Maria," taking the prisoners to the London court.

Police read into the evidence a proclamation alleged to have been found on one of the defendants calling upon England "to withdraw her armed forces" from Ireland and for the Irish people "to assist us in the effort we are about to make in God's name to compel that evacuation and enthrone the Republic of Ireland."

Wally, Duke Eat Garlic, Raw Food for Health and Beauty

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—Don't breathe it to a soul, but—garlic has entered into the romantic lives of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

This was the aromatic tidbit wafted today by Bengamin Gayelord Hauser, Viennese dietician and food counselor to the former King Edward VIII and his American-born wife, Wallis Warfield.

Duchess Wally

Not that the dizzily heady leek arisen as a menace to the worlds most famous romance, Hauser hastened to explain, following his arrival on the French liner Normandie.

"It is still going as strong as ever, perhaps a bit stronger," he said.

"You see, both have taken it up."

Hauser said he prescribed garlic, along with the juices of spinach, carrots and celery, to stimulate health and beauty and build up ruggedness.

It was at two parties given in his honor in Paris by Lady Charles Mendl that he met the Duchess along with 11 other most glamorous women of Europe, and of course, the Duke preaches that uncooked vegetables bring glowing health, so Lady Mendl had the table festooned with raw spinach, carrots and what not.

Lady Mendl

There, said Hauser, who is author of the book "Eat and Grow Beautiful," the Duchess cornered him and admitted to being "diet conscious," and said so was the Duke.

"But she confessed to making mistakes," he added, "and said she was very fond of fats. But she has promised to follow the diet I proposed."

Warn Autoists Off Icy Roads

Ice-glazed roads and sidewalks slowed vehicle and pedestrian traffic to a crawl today after state police had broadcast emergency warnings, advising that all motorists stay off the highways except on necessary business.

The warnings were sent out with apparent success, for none but comparatively minor automobile accidents were reported, despite the sheen of ice and poor visibility as a result of sleet freezing on windshields.

SNOW MAY FOLLOW

Little change in the weather scene locally was anticipated today by the weather bureau, which advised rain and mist throughout tonight and into tomorrow, with a possibility of snow later Saturday.

Temperatures tonight will remain at or slightly above the freezing point, with lower readings by late tomorrow.

Struck by an automobile, a pushcart pedlar who gave his name as George Phillips, and several Boston addresses, suffered a fractured skull, three fractured ribs and internal injuries today in Lechmere square, Cambridge.

MANY TIEUPS

The driver, Ken Hoyt of Lynnfield, told police his vision was obscured by ice on his windshield.

Veronica Grant, 43, of Phillips street, West End, slipped and fell while crossing the State House grounds, near Bulfinch street. She was taken by police to Massachusetts General Hospital and held for observation.

There were heavy traffic tieups on some main traffic arteries, due to the inability of loaded trailer trucks to negotiate unsanded hills.

Announcement was made by Municipal Public Works Commissioner George G. Hyland that streets in the outlying parts of the city are in poor condition because it has been impossible to keep them sanded due to the rain and melting snow.

Torn License His 'Divorce'

DETROIT, Feb. 3 (AP)—County Clerk Caspar J. Lingeman took a firm stand on the divorce question today, ruling that a bridegroom can't get one by tearing up the marriage license after the wedding.

The Rev. Lyndsay D. Ballingall reported to Lingeman that Norris Hoffman, who was married at the Ballingall home Saturday night, returned Sunday morning, asked to see the license and tore it to bits, shouting:

"I'm all through. I'm not married any more."

Lingeman said today:

"He can't do that. I have issued a duplicate license and Hoffman is still married."

As Writer Uncovers Far East Jam

INTERVIEW ON JAPAN—James K. Young, famous war correspondent in the Far East for International News Service, goes over script of "Behind the Scenes in Japan" interview with Ruth Moss for the Colonial network. Young will be luncheon guest and speaker at the Boston City Club Monday.

Japan War Mixup Disclosed

The possibility of Japan declaring war on China adds to a number of puzzling politico-diplomatic factors in the Far East, radio listeners on the Colonial network and members of the Beverly Rotary Club were told today by James R. Young, Far Eastern war correspondent for International News Service.

In Boston he was interviewed by Miss Ruth Moss of WAAB.

"Officially, Japan cannot declare war on China," he said. "One year ago Tokyo announced Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek no longer existed. Now, if Tokyo declares war it would be aimed at her own puppet regimes in Peking, Nanking and Canton. Tokyo would be in the ironical position of setting up a government and then beating it down.

"Such are the peculiarities a foreign correspondent encounters in the 20-months-old undeclared incident.

"If such a war declaration actually came about and caused Washington to use the neutrality act the latter would be of no appreciable value in halting Japanese activity.

"The Japanese would suffer most from lack of oil and gasoline but as for airplanes, why, they have 18 factories of their own, and other war materials would be obtained from Italy and Germany. It's too late now to effectively use the neutrality law or start an economic embargo."

Congressman's Son Killed by Auto

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Millard F. Caldwell, Jr., 10-year-old son of Representative Caldwell (D) of Florida, was killed today when struck by a car.

'Sensible' Wife Given $4 Week

"You can't get blood out of a stone," Mrs. Catherine D. Moore of Meridian street, East Boston, philosophized today in Suffolk Probate Court, when Judge Frederick J. Dillon asked if she didn't want more than $4 weekly from her divorced husband.

"He doesn't make much for himself," she explained.

"That's very sensible," said the judge with approval.

Mrs. Moore was divorced from James J. Moore of Chelsea for desertion. The $4 was for support of James, Jr., 5.

GOT $7 IN YEAR

Mrs. Rose Baustein of American Legion highway, Dorchester, got a divorce from Mitchell Baumstein after testifying he gave her a total of $7 in 1938. Divorce was for neglect to provide.

"He lost his money gambling," Mrs. Baumstein explained. "He was tight, but not for himself."

She was given the right to resume her maiden name of Sirota.

Mrs. Lucille Costello of Dartmouth street, Somerville, was granted a divorce for desertion from James G. Costello, who, she said, walked out in 1935 and never came back. They were married in 1932.

National Guard encampments attended by Joseph C. Fallo were productive of numerous love letters from other women, according to testimony by Mrs. Mary D. Fallo of Parker street, Roxbury.

MONEY? NO; KICKS!

She said he kicked her shins when she asked him for money, and said he had more enjoyment in the National Guard than with her. She got a divorce for cruelty.

Michael Sullivan of Jamaica Plain used to get drunk every other night, punched her chin and blacked both her eyes, Mrs. Catherine Sullivan told Judge John V. Mahoney in another session of the court.

He finally lost his job in the postoffice, she said. She was given custody of Margaret Sullivan, 11, and a divorce for cruelty.

Janet Cohen of Norwell street, Dorchester, married to Harry Cohen in 1930, was given alimony of $5 weekly after testifying her husband bounced her off the wall in an argument about money. He is a salesman.

'Cocktail Hostess' Is Scored

Mrs. Lillian Johnson Halsey's $25,000 suit against the estate of her late brother, former City Greeter Thomas J. A. Johnson, was expected to go to a Suffolk superior court jury late today.

In final argument by counsel for the estate Mrs. Halsey was characterized as "a woman who came into court with a great, big bluff."

"Tom Johnson was a gracious brother to an ungracious sister," Attorney John H. Devine asserted.

"When Mrs. Halsey produced two $5000 checks she said were for 'part' payment for her services as hostess and interior decorator, she did not tell the truth," Attorney Devine charged.

"When Tom gave her those checks he paid her for everything.

"Tom Johnson was a host himself, he didn't need any hostess."

Counsel for Mrs. Halsey was yet to argue.

She contends in her suit financial recompense is due her for services allegedly rendered Johnson when she assisted him in entertaining notables of city, state and nation at his palatial Magnolia mansion.

This was a show place with a golden bed in the master's suite, a marble swimming pool, costly furnishings, gold plated tableware and modernistic decorations.

5 Army Men Get Medals for Gale Heroism

Five enlisted men were given War Department medals at the Army Base today for heroism during the hurricane last September, while four others received citations.

The recipients, all members of the 54th Quartermaster Regiment of the First Corps Area, were honored in a colorful ceremony which included a review parade by their own regiment and presentation of the awards by Brigadier-General Joseph M. Cummins of the First Corps Area.

Five of the men received medals for their daring in the rescue of two men thrown into Boston harbor when their boat was capsized by the 90-mile wind.

They crawled a distance of 1000 feet along a nail-studded breakwater to assist the drowning men until a police boat rescued them all.

Those receiving medals were First-class Private David P. Lee, of Somerville; First-class Private Harold R. West, of Lynn; Private Michael A. Cusano, of Waltham; Private Edward E. Nadeau, of Norwood, R. I., and Private Robert E. Reed, of Bethlehem, Pa.

Citations were given to five other men who also assisted in the rescue.

Death Bares $3-Week Roomer as Rich Man

WORCESTER, Feb. 3—Death today revealed that Perley Stevens, 79, occupant of a $3-a-week top-floor room, was a member of one of New Hampshire's oldest families and once a Woburn carriage manufacturer.

Twelve years ago Stevens went on welfare, but in 1932 was made financially independent through a $50,000 legacy. Nevertheless he continued living in the top-floor room. He died in City Hospital.

Mooney's Wife Sad, Plans to Fight Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3 (INS)—Tom Mooney wants to divorce the woman who waited patiently and courageously 22 years for his release from prison.

But, through her attorney, gray-haired Rena Mooney, who was a young bride when her strapping husband was given a life term for the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing, said she would "fight to the last ditch," rather than have the marriage ties severed.

Rumors that Mooney desired a divorce were heard as soon as he left San Quentin prison on Jan. 7, after receiving a pardon from Governor Culbert L. Olson, California's first Democratic chief executive in 40 years.

THEN THEY PARTED

Mrs. Mooney was there, alternately laughing and crying as the prison gates opened for "my Tom." Behind her husband's broad shoulders, she timidly followed him on the triumphal auto cavalcade to Sacramento and then to San Francisco.

After the first great moments of joy, however, Mooney appeared to pay little attention to her. Soon she retired to her tiny uptown apartment, while Mooney established himself at a large down-town hotel.

Mrs. Mooney, a copyist in the San Francisco federal music project office, confirmed the rumors.

"Yes, Tom has mentioned a divorce. I can't understand it," she said.

"After all we have been through, we should be that much closer together. Maybe all the crowds and praise and the excitement have gone to his head.

"SAVED HIS LIFE"

"And maybe, it's just that some of his new-found friends have turned him against me. They say I am an anchor to Tom.

"All through those black, bitter years, I've fought for him. I helped save him from the gallows. I helped get him out of prison.

"Now Tom is the hero. He speeds around the state in planes and automobiles, listening to the applause of thousands of people.

"I am on relief—at $45 a month.

"Now, we're old. I'm 61. We have been married 27 years and we've been through a lot.

"I want to spend the little life remaining for me with Tom Mooney."

Mooney received word of his wife's statements calmly.

"I'll have to think this over before making any statement," he said.

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 3 (INS)—Turning the second milestone as president of Brown University, Dr. Henry M. Wriston today warned that true democracy will disappear and education will fail if the state and university lose sight of the importance of the individual.

Paddling for Newlyweds

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 3 (AP)—"Old-fashioned woodshed paddlings," thinks Judge Henry O. Goett, might result in fewer divorces—especially among teen-age couples.

He told a couple wrangling in his court over who should get a divorce: "The best thing that could happen to you is for your parents to take you out in the woodshed and give you an old-fashioned paddling."

60 FLEE ACADEMY FIRE

'Stay at Home' Policy Favored

its political and economic affairs as to demonstrate to the world that a democracy can preserve both political liberty and economic freedom. We cannot achieve that end by interfering in foreign disputes concerning which we have little or no factual information and only an emotional interest.

"Let us steach the world by example, not by force. To serve this purpose we must be prepared to defend ourselves against all aggressors, but we should not make ourselves parties to any foreign conflict."

TINKHAM'S STATEMENT

Representative George H. Tinkham, of Massachusetts, Republican member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, said:

"Emphatically the United States should remain strictly neutral in a world which is being contested by Communist Russia, Socialist France, and Imperialistic England.

"The United States in the last World War did not make the world safe for Democracy. It made it safe for dictators and low-grade demagogues, and America has not escaped. If the United States enters another war we will make the world safe for Communism, and nothing else."

Representative Martin Dies, of Texas, chairman of the special committee which conducted the investigation into un-American and subversive activities in this country, said:

"I agree heartily with the whole purport of Mr. Hearst's questionnaire. We must stay on our own shores. We must mind our own business.

"In the undeclared wars the fundamental conflict is between autocracy and the dictatorism of Communism, the United States should not take sides in such a conflict."

TREADWAY REPLIES

Representative Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the ways and means committee, which would have to finance a war, said:

"In reply to Mr. Hearst's constructive questionnaire, of course I am opposed to the United States taking part in any foreign war. We should arm for defense only.

"We should not arm for a war of aggression, but I qualify my response by saying I would want a definition of the word 'defense.' I am for the defense of our own country, but I am not for 'hemisphere defense.'

"Mr. Hearst's question, 'Was the experience of the United States in the last great war beneficial to the world?', is a most interesting one.

"The intention, we were told, was to make the world safe for democracy. The world has been setting up dictators ever since.

"I do not believe Americans should take sides in any foreign war. Most emphatically, No!"

Representative U. S. Guyer of Kansas, ranking Republican member of the House judiciary committee, said:

"I have read Mr. Hearst's questionnaire, and I believe the United States should keep out of foreign wars and mind its own business."

ARM FOR DEFENSE

Representative John M. Costello of California said:

"Our program of armaments should be devised solely for the purpose of defense of the nation and for the protection of the Monroe Doctrine."

Representative Sol Bloom of New York, Democratic member of the House foreign affairs committee, said:

"I want to congratulate Mr. Hearst on the questionnaire which he submitted to the members of the Congress today. It ought to have a most wholesome influence on public opinion throughout the country.

"The United States should not take part in any foreign war, but I do think we should arm for our own defense.

"I most certainly agree with Mr. Hearst's question about a proper policy. We should mind our own business."

Italy Loses Right To U. S. Movies

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (INS)—The American movie industry, incensed at the establishment of an Italian government monopoly on distribution of motion pictures, announced today that it would send no more of its products to Italy.

Recently informed by semiofficial sources that such American stars as the Ritz brothers and Charlie Chaplin were "not funny," the Italian citizens will now be forced to go without seeing any of the American stars, from Greta Garbo to Mickey Mouse.

Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, in making the announcement, said the Hollywood companies "had no choice except entirely to cease distribution in Italy."

Texas Gifts Shower Quads; Mother Gains

GALVESTON, Tex., Feb. 3 AP)—January 10, 1880, in Redwater Life was just a bowl of cherries near Texarkana, Tex.

for the Badgett quadruplets today.

The quartet toured the nation in vaudeville at the age of six months. Two of the children died, one of measles at 11 months and the other, of smallpox at 11 years. Mrs. Ben Warden of Austin, Tex., is the other survivor.

If it were numerous gifts, plans for a home, and an offer for a college education.

Dr. J. W. Jinkins, Sr., said Mrs. W. E. Badgett, 36-year- mother, was gaining strength. "But we are still concerned over her condition."

The infants—they'll be three days old tonight—exhibited all the indications of normal, healthful babies. Jeanette began sucking her thumb. Joyce broke out with occasional but lusty yells. Jeraldine and Joan were less demonstrative.

Dr. R. N. Richardson, executive vice-president of Hardin Simmons University at Abilene, messaged that the university "will be glad to do its part to equip them for lives of useful Christian citizenship."

Birth of the Badgetts recalled the careers of other quadruplets. Mrs. E. F. Kennedy of Fort Worth, said she was one of four girls born

Forbids Operation On 'Doomed' Baby

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 3 (INS)—Today in this Indiana city a father expressed determination to spare his five months old daughter the ordeal of an operation, although informed the child will die and that the operation might give her a few extra months of life.

"She will die unless we operate. But at most an operation can give your daughter but a few months of life."

"Shall we ...?"

"No. If she must die it is best she die quick."

"It's hard to believe that she's not going to live like any other girl. If the operation could insure her life, even though it left her a cripple, I would consider it.

"As it is, it seems like unnecessary cruelty to submit her to a useless operation. We will let nature take its course."

SPECIAL 35c A Dozen LARGE SIZE Until Further Notice

While you, you lucky sleepy-heads, are dreaming sweets in your beds or maybe lying on your backs with loud assorted sound effects, the D. M. hens on nearby roosts are bringing home their hearty loads. Each hunk is packed with brimming bags of newly gathered, big brown eggs. All of those that make the grade are quickly sorted out and weighed. Next they're boxed and then they're taken to our stores just as you waken. This goes on the long night through. Had fine fresh eggs not come to you. And so I say, lest you forget; what price good friends an omelet!

One correspondent, declined to get the President to comment on the attempt to downplay the importance of the situation but the President said it was a very grave

The statement, he said, was a piece of invention pure and simple and referred to what he actually said in connection with the fact that the Israelites had contributed generously to the Red Cross and other humanitarian causes.

Then added he had no doubt that that some member of one of the congressional committees had re-porters there had been a White House reference to a threatened frontier.

He urged however that the newsmen bring the legislation to the executive offices to confront him so that the question might be for ever settled.

Chapman declared that legislative action was necessary because the courts were closed to Carroll, the appeal date having expired.

As the state capital buzzed with excitement and speculation as to what Chapman's revelations would be, interest was heightened by word from state prison at Thomaston that Paul Dwyer had sent a message to his former attorney, E. Walker Abbott, to come and see him.

"I have something important to tell," Dwyer was quoted as saying.

It was his testimony, after pleading guilty to the Dr. Littlefield murder, that cleared his former sweetheart's father and resulted in Carroll's conviction.

At South Paris, Barbara Carroll, 19, came home from her $15 a week shoe factory job and received the news that the bill had been introduced in the Legislature. She said:

"I am very happy. Not for a moment have I doubted my father's innocence. I want to do everything I can to help him.

DO WE WANT THIS?

THE ATTENTION COMMANDING picture and the question it [illegible] all Americans particularly peace-loving, war-hating Americans who resent and fear the secret diplomacy of unaccountable government in Washington.

The grimly accurate portrayal of modern warfare is a CHALLENGE to every truly representative Representative in Congress and to every Senator worthy of the name and office.

In the name of America's millions, whose blood must be needlessly spilled if war comes, it demands that Congress members act and act NOW to KEEP THE UNITED STATES OUT OF ALL WARS.

Congress should get quickly to the bottom of what has been going on in the nation's capital without its knowledge.

WHAT and WHOM does our popular front or rather popular AFFRONT Administration in Washington represent?

What is in the President's mind?

To whom is he listening?

Is the United States, unknown to its people and in defiance of [illegible] ALLIED with France, which in turn is closely allied with COMMUNIST RUSSIA?

The people they who will pay and die if we are plunged into another foreign conflict want these questions answered.

LET CONGRESS GET THE ANSWERS!

GOVERNOR SALTONSTALL surprises Massachusetts with the statement that this Commonwealth never ratified the Bill of Rights.

And, to end the ancient negligence, he proposes that our General Court formally accept the Federal Constitution's important first ten amendments at the earliest possible date.

We agree with the Governor, and enthusiastically endorse his [illegible].

Of course, acceptance would be a mere gesture. It can neither increase nor diminish the blessings of life, liberty and happiness which other States have enjoyed for a century and a half.

But, on this, the 150th anniversary year of the Bill of Rights' adoption, it will be proof anew that we are a grateful people, thankful for the freedom of yesterday, interested in preserving the freedom of today and tomorrow.

IF MONEY TALKS Massachusetts citizens ought to be a [illegible] to the fact that the Federal Government is NOT Santa Claus.

Tax statistics disclosed in Washington, show that during the past year taxes imposed by the national Congress on individuals and corporations took the vast sum of one hundred seventy-eight million seven hundred and forty-three thousand dollars OUT OF OUR PURSE.

Now the Government will waste a goodly part of this amount [illegible] in the so-called "backward" States that pay relatively little into the nation's treasury.

If only we removed our rose-colored glasses and looked at [illegible] in the light that the New Deal regards us. WE, not the [illegible] are ARE THE SANTA CLAUS.

FLOOD CONTROL continues its hold on the Front Page. Yesterday Senator Walsh acting in response to Senator Walsh's [illegible] sent a message to the Legislature.

The purpose, we are told, is to revise our Massachusetts statutes sufficiently to make possible a compromise agreement with the Federal Government.

Perhaps this will succeed. At least, everybody hopes so, but [illegible] especially.

New England people, weary of reading about flood control, would like to see something REAL and TANGIBLE.

The Human Side of the News

Did Anastasia Survive Purge?

By EDWIN C. HILL

[illegible]

LIVING IN A SHACK on a [illegible] Island, of Long Island, is a man who cherishes a strange delusion. He is an artist who [illegible] the Romanoffs. His name is Gleb Votkin. He is the son of a physician who attended Czar Nicholas and the royal family until the evil days fell upon the Romanoffs and the mad world Russia.

In those days Gleb Votkin's playmates (he avers) were the children of the Czar and Czarina, and among these children, the one named Anastasia. He came to know her as well as he knew his own mother's face.

AND, he asserts, with a kind of passion, that the young Russian woman who came to this country ten years or so ago as the guest and protege of the former Princess Xenia of Greece, who had been also Mrs. William B. Leeds, was positively none other than the Grand Duchess Anastasia, even though all available evidence points to the fact that Anastasia, her brother and her four sisters and her father and mother were murdered by the Bolsheviki in the cellar of a house in the city of Ekaterinburg in Siberia.

The Russian royal family had been sent to this bleak region while Lenin, Trotsky and company made up their minds what to do with them. The Commisar in charge was a cold-blooded rascal named Yourkovsky. Either by orders from the Red leaders in Petrograd or on his own initiative, he decided to slaughter the entire family. So they were dragged into the cellar and slain, their bodies later soaked with kerosene and burned.

Now the woman who has claimed ever since that she is the Grand Duchess Anastasia has agreed that all of this is perfectly true, except for one particular.

She claims that she was wounded only and left for dead, but that she was saved by a Bolshevik soldier who was secretly in love with her. He smuggled her out of the death chamber, concealed her in a hut near Ekaterinburg, and finally succeeded in escaping with her to Bucharest. There they were married.

A weirdly romantic [illegible] indeed.

The cold-blooded, unutterably brutal murder of the royal family occurred on July 16, 1918. If Anastasia, by some miracle, escaped that massacre, she would be 35 now. It was a dozen years ago that she made the acquaintance in Europe of the former Princess Xenia.

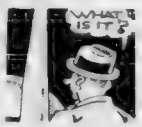
THE PRINCESS had been a playmate of the Romanoff children and was so convinced of the identity of Mme. Anastasia Tschaikowsky as the Grand Duchess Anastasia Nicolaievna, that she brought the woman to this country in 1928.

However, surviving members of the Romanoff family who had seen the lady and had talked to her asserted emphatically that she was not a Romanoff, but an out and out impostor.

IMPERIAL RUSSIA'S GRAND DUCHESSES
Anastasia (Center) Lives, Says Long Islander

'Bugs' Baer Says:

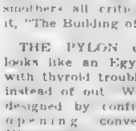
WENT DOWN to see Grover Whelan's Haunted Village yesterday and it's coming along like a pup on a leash. The idea of architecture seems to be to find out how many windows you can build without putting up a building.



THERE'S A THING they call the Perisphere that looks like a fishless fish bowl. Then there's a pointy thing called the Pylon that sort of looks like a gram elevator in a drouth year.

THE STRUCTURES they put in a world fair are queerer than a two foot yardstick. Nothing like 'em has ever been gandered on land or sea. So the architect smothers all criticism by calling it, "The Building of Tomorrow."

THE PYLON or the Trylon looks like an Egyptian pyramid with thyroid trouble. It grew up instead of out. We think it was designed by confidence men for opening conversations. The Westbenders will look at the Trylon and say, "WHAT'S THAT!"



That's all the slickers need. A talking point.

FROM THEN on it will be every man for himself. The other buildings have more shapes than a hired man with rheumatism. They're full of cog wheels and machinery. You've got to put on overalls and grab an oil can to get into a breakfast alcove in the Home of Tomorrow.

The Brighter Side

Patriotism Scores On Broadway

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1939, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International rights reserved.

"THE AMERICAN WAY" must be a prodigious success and therefore probably a good show, because nearly everybody you run into around New York wants to give you an argument about it. No one ever gives you an argument about a flop and only good shows are successes, as a rule.

We saw "The American Way" and, while we do not profess to be a dramatic critic, we thought it swell entertainment. That is all we pay our money for in the theater—entertainment. We went out a well satisfied cash customer.

"The American Way" is a show with a format taken from Noel Coward's "Cavalcade" and is soaked with the same essence of the American flag that George M. Cohan used to get into his shows, only George did it with music of his own invention.

There is music in "The American Way," but mostly it is in snatches of old tunes borrowed for the occasion. The whole business winds up with the orchestra playing "The Star Spangled Banner," so all the cash customers have to rise and stand at attention.

Some of the cash customers around us the night we saw "The American Way" were inclined to protest a little about being sort o' prodded by the playwrights into the patriotic gesture at the finish, and we suppose it is a little hokey, at that, as those things are judged in the theater, but we see no harm in it and it may do good.

THE SHOW ENDS on that note and everybody is going to rise anyway to make their exit, or escape, according to how they feel about the performance, so why not stand a minute longer in respect to the national anthem? At least you are not asked also to sing.

As a matter of fact, we have always thought that all public dinners and all public assemblages of any kind in this country including those of the theater should open with the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and we see no reason why they should not close the same way.

However, we suppose some of those cash customers at "The American Way" felt that the playwrights were rather taking advantage of them by making them include the play as well as the anthem in the tribute when they were not disposed to pay tribute to the play at all.

IN THIS COUNTRY there are millions of descendants of the men who left their bloody footprints on the snows of Valley Forge and of the men who beat back the enemy at New Orleans, or stormed the heights of Buena Vista. These millions come down in a direct line from the heroes who died in the Wilderness or at Shiloh or on San Juan Hill.

Many themselves fought at Chateau Thierry and through the Argonne and they rather take their patriotism for granted and feel they do not have to be publicly reminded of it, especially when they also suspect that the reminder is for the benefit of the box office.

That, we think, explains the passing resentment of the cash customers who complained to us of being bludgeoned into patriotic gesture at "The American Way."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

LIFE MUST BE A COMPROMISE. It is necessary to realize what you CAN'T DO as well as to know what you can. Success comes to people who are pliable enough to be molded by circumstances. Happiness comes to people who learn to be satisfied with what they have.

LIFE MUST BE A COMPROMISE. Most of the unhappiness in the world comes from people who refuse to compromise. They keep on fighting for the impossible. They waste their energy and their emotions trying to change the unchangeable. They refuse to be satisfied with anything less than perfection.

LIFE MUST BE A COMPROMISE. We are born into a world we never made. We are born with bodies we never chose. We are born into families we never picked. We are born with minds we never developed. We are born with tendencies we never asked for.

LIFE MUST BE A COMPROMISE. We are born into a world of imperfection. We are born into a world of inequality. We are born into a world of injustice. We are born into a world of misery. We are born into a world of pain. We are born into a world of sorrow. We are born into a world of tragedy. We are born into a world of death.

THIS IS A GRAND book in many ways, but it fails to prove a thesis. Having both read and seen "Gone With the Wind," we refuse to admit that "there can't happen in our present" across the very vastness of its power and wealth encourages us to despise mediocrity.

Examine any career, no matter how glorious it may seem, and you will speedily find that its glory is only relative. In comparison with your more humdrum program, it may seem the height of heart's desire.

Actually it's just another compromise between what some mortal wanted and what he managed to get . . . and, beneath the spangles, he's no more content than you are.

LIFE MUST BE A COMPROMISE between your childish delusions of grandeur and grim reality. Somewhere along the line there's a point where you can fit and function happily. But nobody's going to find that point for you. You must discover it for yourself.

HERE IT IS AGAIN—that exciting chance to be COLUMNIST FOR A DAY and tell the world YOUR side of things. Any timely topic goes. Max 500 words. Age doesn't matter. Name withheld if desired. Girl About Town

by ANN MARSTERS

THERE IS NO need for Boston advertising boosters to go to New York because of lack of news. And to prove it, here's enough to choke a cow.

Love, Honor & Obey, a new musical comedy, opens tomorrow night at the Shubert. Nine performances are scheduled.

A Boston girl, Miss Ruth Gordon, is one of the principal actresses in the new play, which is by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein 2nd. Miss Gordon has been in the cast of "Three Men on a Horse" and "Ethan Frome."

When the show opens in Boston, it will have Miss Gordon and Miss Frances Williams as its two feminine stars. Miss Williams is a Boston girl, too.

And now the cast is complete, as far as Boston is concerned. Edna Mae Oliver, a Boston girl, has been signed to play a leading role. Miss Oliver has been on the stage since she was a child, and has appeared in many successful plays.

LAST NIGHT, Louis Sobol, the New York columnist, who says the right things about the right people, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by Mrs. Lucius Boomer at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. Sobol was in Boston for the opening of "Hellzapoppin" at the Shubert.

Among those present were Mrs. Boomer, Mr. Sobol, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. Jock Whitney, Mrs. Lytle Hull, Mrs. Ogden Reid, Mrs. Robert Sherwood, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Ogden Mills, Mrs. Dudley Field Malone, Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mrs. Frederick Guest, Mrs. Ralph Hitchcock

Young and old, big and little, "he and she"—camera fans of every description were busy throughout New England today, taking pictures for the year's greatest Camera Contest.

Spurred by the offer of real newspaper cameramen's positions on the Boston Evening American, Daily Record and Sunday Advertiser, amateur photographers already are submitting entries in the contest sponsored by these papers and Glass Incorporated.

Major prize in the contest will be a free three-day visit to the New York World's Fair. Cash awards totaling $1000 also await the winners.

Hollywood

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD Feb. 3. Carroll Lynn is a wonder child when Lucy Paddock, Deanna Durbin producer, has been carefully grooming these many months. Her name is Joan Richmond, and she comes from Scranton, Pa. Only ten years old, the child has such talent that "The Under Pup," a magazine story by I. A. R. Wylie, was bought especially for her.

While there is no denying that Deanna is a box office pet, we cannot overlook the part that Fanchon Lemaire played in her career by his selection of stories. He will try to do the same thing for little Gloria Jean, assisted by Deanna, who has taken a fancy to the little girl. Juanita Quigley and Nan Grey have been signed for other important roles in "The Under Pup," but it's Gloria's picture, and if she clicks Universal will have another young star to keep the big bad wolf away.

Laurence Olivier is leaving Hollywood and will be working in his country after he finishes 'Wuthering Heights' and I don't have to tell you Vivien Leigh is the reason. Interesting because he never heaven and earth to get out of America when he was here the last time.

Now he wants to produce a play on Broadway and has discussed with Noel Coward a new one by British playwright but in order and another play, a light comedy, already completed by S. N. Behrman. He's putting his own backroll in his American production, too. Maybe it's foolish, but at least he has the courage of his convictions.

Chatter in Hollywood: First before Joan Blondell and Dick Powell hit out for Palm Springs to enjoy a few days in the hot desert air, she affixed her signature to that long discussed Columbia contract.

By its terms she becomes a Columbia star, much as Jean Arthur and Cary Grant are, with the same outside movie privileges when she isn't needed at the home studio. She will be teamed with Melvyn Douglas again in "Good Girls Go to Paris," a sophisticated comedy.

Snapshots of Hollywood

Annabella flew back from Washington and don't tell me it isn't love when Tyrone Power waited for hours at the airport. Bette Davis came up from La Quinta today just long enough for retakes on "Juarez" and hied herself right back; Lionel Barrymore is being talked of as mayor of Reseda.

George Raft had a hunch on High Lark, the Vanderbilt horse, and bet $500 on the nose yesterday, netting a mere $1600; Hedy Lamarr and Gene Markey, still aflame, holding hands at a cafe; Syd Chaplin meeting many old friends at the same cafe, Dorothy Lamour has been promoted to Carole Lombard's former dressing room at Paramount. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

'Naughty Marietta' Back to Tremont

"Naughty Marietta," the Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy musical, which has been brought back 16 times to the Tremont Theater, returns again Sunday for a four-day engagement, by popular demand. The companion film will be "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," with Fredric March and Miriam Hopkins.

TULLY DISCUSSES LOVE WITH PETRA

What Has Happened:

Tully Knibbs, hands-on chemist, invents a kiss-proof lipstick for Petra Gann, a murderess. Beneath Jones, kissing Flora at a party, the lipstick's supremacy is proved. Petra Gann, a Polish publicity woman, tries unsuccessfully to sell the formula to Miss Gann and Clinker Brown. Brown has stolen the papers. L. E. Stringer, Miss Gann's private detective, visits the formula and Clinker in a night attack.

Tully becomes fonder of Petra Gann and mistakes what he chooses to regard as love. Convinced he wants a million, not a wife, he teaches Flora to dance and proposes to her.

CHAPTER 12

Petra Gann! I'll ask Tully to kiss her and he did—passionately. Petra struggled a little, though she broke from his embrace.

"All right," she said. "Let's go home. The answer to your proposal of marriage and millions is an unqualified NO."

"But why? I never—that's no way. I didn't intimate—I'm aware you didn't. The answer is NO and I won't—"

"I won't marry you if you were the United States Treasury. Stop it, please, Mr. Cinderella. You can drive as rapidly as you like."

Tully was doing what might have been called, with regard to Petra Gann, the unfavorable. As he drove he thought he had never in his life been so thoroughly disgusted. Why didn't she have the decency to be the lady Star reporter, gossip columnist and book reviewer she looked and acted? Instead she was a—a—a—

Petra Gann at work was a different matter. Perhaps if he might have a different view of her profession.

A JEALOUS MAN

The car itself was going through a period of varying phases. Before the fiasco of his deliberate—Petra Brent. The car was the last object on earth Tully had bought as a means to an end. Now it was a rapidly jealousy-engendering machine. The fact that Petra and Bernard Marshak were having a—something at somebody's place—Tully forced himself to look to the road and to another survey of—

Bernard Marshak and Marshak was a Bernard to her. Tully had been—other confusion or collusion—during that trying period. Tully was on the way from Baltimore to Silver Spring and back and—

Smart Set Fashions

By ANNICE BRINK

BOLEROS straight from a wild Macedonian's uniform . . . from a Turkish girl's yoke . . . from an English schoolboy's suit . . . it doesn't matter where the idea came from, they're still among the smartest of the smart! A bolero makes this new outfit a first fashion favorite for cruise, or summer wear.

Over the eternally smart shirtwaist dress with zipper neck and ingenuous collar goes a bolero made on the baby sweater idea. Short-sleeved and small as any chic layette number. The ribbing is particularly nice. On the skirt it is carried to the midriff, with extra fullness introduced to give a drapey bodice line.

KNITTING DIRECTIONS for this good-looking number may be yours simply for the asking — and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Annice Brink Fashion Editor, Boston American, and don't forget the name.

TODAY IS FRIDAY, or whither-are-we-drifting day. Lets open the week's accumulation of mail and take a bearing.

"Sir—We have to hand the gold-plated harpoon to Art Ross for sheer audacity. Not satisfied with having a league-leading team, the Simon Legree of hockey sells Thompson and then Getliffe and Sands. I may be wacky, but my memory of sound sport practice reads, 'never break up a winning combination' . . JBM, So. Boston."

Ans.—Never means "eternity." A shrewd manager anticipates collapse before it occurs. Nor has Ross ever professed to look on hockey players as sentimental packages of blood, meat and bones. He regards them as impersonal pawns on a chess board with himself as the master-mover. Like any other professional sport, hockey is a money business. Still, the time to holler is when a manager misses his guess, and Ross hasn't missed many.

"Sir—In the annual pre-season prediction Messers. Ford Frick and William Harridge of the two major leagues, employ the same rubber-stamp glory-words, 'boom year,' 'hot races,' 'increasing interest,' 'tighter pennant drives.' LOVER AND FIGHTER -:- KID McCOY'S OWN STORY

BARNSTORMING BROUGHT NEW THRILLS TO KID McCOY

Kid McCoy has been fighting, on the run, often with skintight gloves, around Muncie, Ind. A pretty girl "cuts him dead" in the street, and that decides him to get away from the crew of shell-game operators infesting the town. But he has had one terrific fight, 22 rounds to a draw, with Ike Boone, a giant Negro. Back home in Indianapolis he becomes a paperhanger, but a fight offer from Akron, O., draws him away. In addition to the purse, he accepts $100 to let George Bennett have a draw. But the crowd objects to the decision and Kid McCoy saves the referee from being mobbed.

He goes barnstorming with Tommy Whalen, who takes a fake name and poses as an Australian champion in Moundsville, W. Va., they fight. McCoy knocks Whalen down, but the referee, who is drunk, refuses to count him out.

McCoy and the referee argue, and McCoy knocks out the referee. McCoy is now employed by Henry Ford in Detroit.

Carnera in Bid For Happiness | Crushed Giant Is To Take a Bride

By JACK CONWAY

PRIMO CARNERA, now a movie actor in Italy, looks forward to marrying Tina Cavazzi, a postal clerk, on March 11. Those of us who got to know and like the Italian giant, hope that Primo will have all the happiness possible during the remaining years of his life.

Mr. Boston

When Carnera sailed from the United States for Italy, it was necessary to help him up the gangplank as he was partly paralyzed as a result of punches received in the ring. Since then the former champion has regained his health and is able to work once more.

Carnera earned more than $750,000 while boxing in the United States, but when he finally ended his ring career he was almost broke. When Primo won the title, he went into bankruptcy to save himself from his creditors.

Carnera made most of his money when he first came to the United States under the direction of Leon See. See was a little Frenchman who found Primo wrestling in a circus. He converted Carnera into a boxer.

Primo's American tour drew tremendous crowds. The public was anxious to see the gigantic Primo in action.

See later wrote in a series of articles that many of the bouts on Carnera's American tour were "anticipated."

DURING THE height of his career, Carnera was defeated by Jim Maloney at the Boston Garden in a surprise upset. Later Primo received a questionable decision over Maloney in Philadelphia.

Leon See and Carnera invested their money in a joint account. They bought oil lands and various speculative stocks. The depression took their earnings.

Carnera was a tragic figure when Ernie Schaaf died following a bout with the giant. Primo had a personal fondness for Schaaf as a great fighting man, and was heart-broken when Ernie slumped to the canvas of the ring after being hit by a straight left hand punch, and died a few days later in a New York hospital.

I always felt that the death of Schaaf was responsible for the defeat of Jack Sharkey by Carnera. Sharkey was in Schaaf's corner the night the latter received the punch from which he never recovered.

"I could see the look of death on Schaaf's face as he dropped to the canvas," Sharkey later told me.

Sharkey had passed his peak as a fighter when he met Carnera in their title bout. Jack had previously beaten Primo in a contest in Brooklyn, but at that time was on the way to the championship himself.

When Sharkey defended his title against Carnera, he was carrying the burden of advancing years as well as the thought of Schaaf's untimely death. These conditions made it easier for Carnera to win by a knockout. The Sharkey who two years previously had dropped Carnera to the canvas and punished him badly with terrific punches did not prove a match for the giant.

I VISITED Carnera's training camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J., the day before his title bout with Max Baer. It was announced that Primo was resting, and could not be seen by newsmen.

I was able to gain admittance to Carnera's quarters, and found him in his room. The big fellow was in bed, and sick from a heavy cold. He was alone when I saw him, and was much upset over the fact he would be meeting Max Baer at a time when he was not in the best of physical condition.

I chatted with Carnera for an hour. He impressed me as a big, undeveloped boy.

Dr. William Walker of the New York Athletic Commission later told me that Carnera's tremendous size was due to a gland condition, and that he only had the mentality of a boy of 15 to 16 years of age.

Carnera proved a perfect target for Baer's punches. Max was able to take time out to clown as he battered the giant into submission.

WHILE CARNERA was at home in Italy without funds, his lawyers salvaged $14,000 from one of his purses that had been attached, and sent him the money.

Leon See was moved out of the Carnera management before the latter became champion. See is in Paris where he is representing an American newspaper syndicate. See, like Carnera, lost all of the money he earned during the boom days of American boxing.

I hear from Carnera occasionally. When he sends me his greetings, he always recalls the time I spent with him in his training camp while he was sick. This is proof of the lonesomeness of the giant at the time, and his desire to have company.

Carnera was never a great fighter. For his size he was only an ordinary puncher. If Carnera had not tried to box and had gone in and clubbed his opponents into submission by caveman tactics, he might have been more successful than he was.

After losing the championship, Carnera was paralyzed by a blow, and for weeks was confined to a hospital. That condition brought his ring career to a close.

The boxing public at times gets the false idea that a heavyweight to be great must be over 200 pounds. This is why promoters find it so easy to sell circus freaks like Carnera to the fans.

Jack Dempsey only weighed 183 pounds the day at Toledo he knocked out big Jess Willard.

Jack Sharkey scaled 188 pounds as he defeated George Godfrey and Harry Wills within a period of three weeks. Sharkey then had the fire of youth, and in those days would have knocked out Carnera at his best inside of six rounds.

Joe Marcewicz, the A. E. F. wrestling champion, never weighed over 187 pounds when a title holder, and he toyed with 250 to 300-pound giants.

Ex-Lowell Star Runs in Relay Meet

Billy Wood, former Lowell High School ace sprinter, takes his place with the newest entries in the list of special events to be conducted at the Schoolboy Writers' Relay Carnival to be held at the Boston Garden, February 12.

Wood, now attending Worcester Academy, has received is invitation and will be at his slot on the dash boards to defend his championship, garnered last year.

In capturing the 50-yard distance last season Wood established a new record of 5.4 seconds and then continued his fine winter showing to become one of the outstanding boy trackmen of the year.

Wood, after winning the Dartmouth interscholastic 60-yard dash, entered and won the Y. M. C. A. 45-yard handicap run, starting from scratch, beating Ed Dugger, former Medford High star, in one of his best showings.

The committee also announces the entry of Brighton Bill Simon in the 300-yard run. Coach Billy Murphy's gridder ran second to Howie Caldwell, Brockton, in the Northeastern meet, losing out after a stern stretch battle.

In Boston school meets at the armory, Simon boasts an undefeated record over this distance.

the major league season with his pair of successive no-hit, no-run pitching performances.

Four of Massachusetts' native sons, all managers, either past or present, spoke their pieces and most effectively.

Micky Cochrane, saying a fine word for Eldon Auker and Jake Wade, new Sox hurlers, expressed his appreciation for what the baseball writers had done for him.

"I'm leaving the game with genuine regret," the former Tigers' manager said. "But," he continued, "Thanks for the Memories."

Cochrane, like many of the other guest speakers, held out a world of hope for both our Boston clubs as major pennant threats this new approaching season.

Harold "Pie" Traynor blamed the Bees for knocking his Pirates out of the pennant a year ago, and then followed up by blasting Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs for that momentous homer which definitely put the damper on the Pirates morale and sunk them beyond late season saving.

Hartnett was there, all beaming as usual. Leo Durocher of the Dodgers was on hand, too. And Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, Bob Quinn, prexy of the Bees, Eddie Collins of the Sox family and everyone else who is baseball-minded.

ANONYMOUS DONOR

Joe Cashman, president of the Boston Chapter, and the man directly responsible for the grand party, announced an anonymous donor of $100 as a fund to commemorate each year Boston's outstanding rookie.

There was fun and laughter throughout and none in the huge audience enjoyed it more than some of the veterans of the game who dotted the tables.

Taking spotlight bows from the floor were such as Bill Carrigan, Duffy Lewis, Hughie Duffy, Jesse Burkett, Bunny Madden, Fred Mitchell, Jack Egan, phenomenal John Smith, Shano Collins, Fred Parent, Billy Hamilton, Patsy Donovan, Bill Sweeney, Judge Ken Nash, Kitty Bransfield, Bill Barrett.

INDIANS-TIGERS DEAL OFF

DELRAY BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP)—C. C. Slapnicka, vice-president of the Cleveland Indians, said today Cleveland had rejected a Detroit Tigers' offer for Outfielder Earl Averill.

DECKARD OUT TO TAKE LASH IN B. A. A. 2-MILE

By MURRAY KRAMER

It may be true that the Hunter Mile is conceded to Glenn Cunningham a week from Saturday at the B. A. A. games but there are many who insist that the long string of victories run up by Don Lash in the two-mile will finally come to an end.

And, curiously enough, the boy who is apt to turn the trick is a Hoosier and a former teammate of the Indiana policeman, Tommy Deckard.

Deckard, a bit short on work in the Prout games, showed a kick in the gun lap and Lash's margin of victory was not at all great.

Tommy returned home, determined to again come East and beat Lash at the B. A. A. games, and no less an authority than Billy Hayes, Indiana's wonder coach, believes that his undersized distance champ can turn the trick.

But Deckard is not alone in hopes of upsetting Lash. A kid named Gilbert Dodds from Ashland College in Ohio and the veteran Joe McClusky have aspirations also.

While it's true that McCluskey has not as yet entered, there's as much chance of keeping him away as there is a show better from the window when Seabiscuit is running.

McCLUSKEY COCKY

McCluskey said after the Prout games that Lash is not as fast as he was last year, and Joe openly predicted that with a little more conditioning he will run the champ right into the boards.

And then there is Dodds. This youngster from Ohio is saying nothing but according to 399 of the 400 students at Ashland College, he is out for revenge.

Gil led Lash until 30 yards from the finish of the two mile at the Sugar Bowl Games last month and a week from Saturday night, he hopes to even matters.

I'LL WRITE A COLUMN AND TEAR THIS EARS OFF 'EM.

ness helped make baseball history. Why not a Hall of Scream? TBR, Roxbury."

Ans.—Well why not? Trimmed in ivory and wreathed with spinach. Fred Merkle's failure to touch second base—perhaps the game's most impressive boner. Add Heinie Zimmerman for chasing Eddie Collins across the plate with a winning world series run. And Roger Peckinpaugh's 8 series errors in '25. Also Hank Gowdy's trip over his mask on that capricious foul fly in '24. And Babe Herman, Hack Wilson, Rube Waddell . . . The Hall isn't big enough!

"Sir—A while ago some sports writer, either you or some contemporary, wrote that their profession had been on the side of mercy rather than meanness. You, or he, cited the case of a recent college football great whose dad is a lifer in prison—without giving names, of course, and said, as a sample of forebearance, that no one had printed the story. What about the writer who 'turned' Jim Thorpe in for playing some harmless summer ball after he had won the 1912 Olympic pentathlon? . . . Nameless."

Ans.—(1) Not guilty! (2) The Thorpe exposeur was Francis Albertanti, former fight publicist and now in a Hollywood press bureau. He won himself no glory! However, as an irrelevant item, Thorpe's medals and trophies are still housed in Oslo, credited to the great Sac and Fox Indian.

"SIR—WHY DON'T YOU SOFTEN that marble heart of yours and give Gus Sonnenberg some credit? The guy is busted and making a come-back. After all he helped birds like you make a living . . . Fair Play."

Ans.—On consulting my conscience I wonder how much is, or ever was, Sonny and how much the beneficence of mat maestros. After all, he did lift wrestling from a boresome kind of physical drudgery into something beautiful and profitable and birds like me should be grateful.

"Sir—As a student of journalism, hopeful of landing a job, I noticed you said recently that interviewing is a fine art . . . How and why? . . . DJ, Boston."

Ans.—Perhaps "fine art" is too much altitude. Say rather a "mild psychology." First principle is to refrain from making your victim self-conscious. Don't use the "pad-and-pencil" system. Don't charge, bull fashion, at a delicate topic, but first skirt skillfully around the edges. Be conversational rather than examining. Those are a few elements.

Clocker Says:

Roman Best At Hialeah

By BILL SMITH

Roman made his debut a sizzler when he drubbed Halcyon Boy and Wake Robin in 33 2-5 seconds, only 2-5 of a second off the track record held by Recorder.

The Whitener Sir Gallahad III colt drew out in the final furlong to win by two lengths.

With improvement expected from that juice start, Roman, well placed in the first heat, looms as "cinch" to make it two straight wins and is easily the outstanding betting hazard of a gala Saturday card at Hialeah Park.

GULFSTREAM

Meeting every horse that he beat in the Inaugural Handicap at Gulfstream Park with the exception of Patsy Begone, Shoulder Arms gets enough chalk figures to total the national debt.

The Longchamps Farms gelding is picking up only five pounds off his opening day victory and will be seeking two consecutive triumphs in the fifth event at Florida's new strip tomorrow.

Jim Tobin Refuses Pittsburgh Terms

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 3 (AP)—Jim Tobin, Pittsburgh Pirates' pitcher, has returned his fourth unsigned contract to the National League club and formally admitted he was a holdout.

Ski Scribblings by "TAP" GOODENOUGH

"GOOD SKIING EVERYWHERE!" These three words sum up the reports from all northern ski centers, so wax up your hickorys and set off on a real ski spree! Whether local conditions will remain good is problematical, but yesterday's light rain in Boston was snow in New Hampshire. The chances are, however, that suburban skiers will be able to find adequate covering for their sliding slats.

TWO ONE-DAY SNOW TRAINS have been scheduled by the Boston and Maine. Saturday, a train will steam out of the North Station at 8:30 a. m., headed for Conway, North Conway, and Intervale. Sunday's train leaves at 8:15 a. m. for Plymouth, Campton, North Woodstock, and Lincoln. The best conditions of the year should greet Snow Trainers, if snow fields remain as they are NOW. Ski Hell!

THE NOSEDIVE RUN ON MT. MANSFIELD at Stowe, Vermont, will be the course for the U. S. Eastern Amateur Downhill and Slalom Championships tomorrow and Sunday. Swerving and schussing in streamlined tempos, the best skiers in the East will vie for the coveted honors to be had in the first major meet of the year. Perfect conditions and a fast course await courageous competitors.

MESERVEY PICKED

Ed Meservey, last year's Slalom Champ and former Dartmouth star, should be at Stowe to defend his title. Ted Hunter, another Dartmouth alumnus, may prove a tough nut to crack in the field, although Dick Durrance, Big Green Ace, will be the starting favorite.

THE CHISHOLM SKIING AND OUTING CLUB AT RUMFORD, MAINE, holds its annual winter carnival and State of Maine skiing championships this week-end. The program opens Saturday morning with the Maine Interscholastic ski meet in which fourteen high schools have entered.

Sunday's skiing program will include class A, B and C jumping, an 11½-mile cross-country race, and the state of Maine downhill and slalom championships. Special trains from Portland and Waterville will carry spectators to this meet, which is sanctioned by the USEASA.

THE MOUNT HOOD WINTER CARNIVAL at Melrose will finally take place, providing snow around Greater Boston holds out for the week-end. Conflicting, unfortunately, with this snow-fest is the scholastic meet sponsored by Watertown high school in which more than 150 students from 15 schools have been entered. The events are scheduled to be held Saturday at St. Moritz in Quincy.

It is hoped by Melrose authorities that the Watertown high meet can be postponed, thus permitting many more boys to compete for the large trophy donated by the Dartmouth Alumni Association of Boston. Such scholastic ski meets may produce future collegiate and Olympic stars for the U. S.

As numerous as the snowflakes the THE NEW HAMPSHIRE CARNIVALS listed for the week-end. The University of New Hampshire carnival starts today and runs through Sunday. Ski teams from 15 New England and Canadian colleges will contest.

Preparatory and high school carnivals are being staged by Pembroke Academy on Saturday, Acton High School today, and tomorrow, New Hampton school and Tilton school Friday through Sunday. The New Hampton school ski events will include up-and-downhill races and parallel slaloms.

Other carnivals are slated for Wilton, Meredith, Woodsville and Rochester. Oscar Cyr, director of the Newfound Region Ski School, in charge of ski competition at Rochester.

"PREP" MEET SUNDAY

A "prep" school meet is on Sunday at the Belknap Mountains recreation area in Gilford, while the Appalachian Mountain Club and the White Mountain Ski Runners will have a meet nearby.

Slalom races will be conducted at Plymouth by the Swiss Ski School, 12 noon to 2 p. m. Sunday.

IN THE NEWFOUND REGION, the weekly slalom races return to the Ski School Hill in Bristol on Sunday at 1:15 p. m. Henry Fling, who has just become the proud father of a son and promising ski maestro, will set a course of advanced calibre.

Three other branches of the Ski School will operate classes as usual at Mt. Cardigan, Pasquaney Inn, and Mailbox Hill. Last week-end, 128 were given lessons.

THE EASTERN SKI CHAMPIONSHIPS have organized a patrol of girls, under the auspices of the American Red Cross, who are being instructed in first aid, and who will be first aid assistants at the ski jumping championships March 4 and 5 at the Belknap Recreational area. Maybe when a jumper sees a group of pretty girls looking for a patient, he'll oblige 'em by landing on his head!

Then there's the chap who was "too tired" to shovel off his sirewalk, but went out and skied for four hours after supper!

'Sonny' Nearer Mat Title

Gus Sonnenberg is one step nearer his goal of regaining his mat crown.

The old Dynamiter blasted Ernie Dusek out of his path in two out of three falls at the Boston Garden.

Although Ernie protested vigorously over Referee Al Morelli's action in pulling him off Gus into the center of the ring where Sonny took a shot at him with a flying tackle to win the match, nothing is expected to come of the complaint.

Rough House Ernie proved too much for Sonny in the first encounter, when after almost sixteen minutes of wrestling when both contestants were thrown from the ring, the Omahan finally butted

Out but not for long! Gus Sonnenberg comes back to win.

Gus to the mat and fell on him for the first fall in 15:58½.

After losing the first fall, Sonnenberg remained in the ring until the second tangle and returned all the slugging he received previously. Absorbing little punishment, the former champion took every advantage and finally caught Ernie off guard. A series of flying tackles brought about Dusek's down fall in 12:15½.

Angelo Cistoldia, Italy, and Tom Casey, Ireland went to a draw; 15 minutes.

Frank Brown, Texas, won over Ed White, Texas, in 9:48 of a 15-minute bout with airplane whirl and slam.

Harry Jacobs, California won over Everett Kibbons, Oklahoma in 7:40 with lift and slam.

A share of the proceeds will be given to the Infantile Paralysis Fund.

ROOM AND BOARD — By Gene Ahern

—BUT YOU LOOK LIKE A SEALYHAM TERRIER IN THAT DISGUISE AND THE INDIAN CHIEF IS BOUND TO BECOME SUSPICIOUS OF YOU GOING IN AND OUT OF THE HOUSE!— NOW HERE'S AN IDEA,— SINCE THE CHIEF SAYS HE'S GOING TO SCALP YOU AND YOU'RE ALREADY THREE-QUARTERS BALD, WHY DON'T YOU WEAR A WIG AND HE COULD PEEL IT OFF WITH A PUTTY KNIFE?— THEN HE'D THINK HIS HONOR HAD BEEN AVENGED!
JOVE,— AN EXCELLENT SUGGESTION, LAD!— HE HAS ALWAYS SEEN ME WEARING A BERET, SO I'LL PUT ON A CURLY TOUPEE,— ONE I WORE AS A SCOTLAND YARD INSPECTOR, WHEN I SOLVED THE FAMOUS TWICKLEHAM CASE!—
AS IT IS NOW, JUDGE, HE'D SCALP YOUR CHIN!—

Toronto Honors Ross

Flash Hollett's Rib Broken

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Charlie Querrie, Toronto sportsman, presented Art Ross, Manager of the Boston Bruins, with a silver plated monkey wrench into which a watch was fitted.

The presentation commemorated an occasion in Boston more than a decade ago when a Boston fan threw a wrench at Querrie on the bench of the Toronto St. Pats which he then managed. The wrench missed.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3 (INS)—Led by their veteran defense star, Eddie Shore, who turned in one of the best games he's ever shown on Toronto ice, the league leading Boston Bruins turned back the Maple Leafs here by a score of 2 to 1.

It was the Bruins' fifth straight win away from home and their third over the Leafs.

Bill Hollett, Boston defenseman, suffered a broken rib in the second period, throwing an extra defense job on Shofe's hands, but the Bruin veteran only played better than ever and broke up play after play.

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins, who introduced helmets to hockey, has announced that the Boston team will be provided with aluminum foot and leg protectors when the two teams meet again in Boston next Tuesday.
